Investing involves risk, including possible loss of principal.

Diversification does not eliminate the risk of experiencing investment loss.

¹NAV or Net Asset Value represents the net value of an entity and is calculated as the total value of the entity's assets minus the total value of its liabilities.

²MKT or Market Price is the current price at which a good or service can be purchased or sold. ³The Barclays Capital U.S. Aggregate Bond Index (or "US Agg") is a broad, market-value-weighted benchmark for the U.S. dollar-denominated, investment-grade bond market, tracking U.S. Treasuries, government-related, corporate, mortgage-backed (MBS), and asset-backed (ABS) securities with at least one year to maturity, serving as a key measure for the overall U.S. fixed-income market.

ETFs are subject to additional risks that do not apply to conventional mutual funds, including the risks that the market price of an ETF's shares may trade at a premium or discount to its net asset value, an active secondary trading market may not develop or be maintained, or trading may be halted by the exchange in which they trade, which may impact an ETF's ability to sell its shares.

Shares of any ETF are bought and sold at market price (not NAV) and are not individually redeemed from the ETF. Brokerage commissions will reduce returns.
